

We hear quite often when entering Motherhood, that our children will be the light of our lives. I would have never imagined that my first son, Lachlan, would shine a light in my life the way he has.

One in four pregnancies end in the death of a baby.

Over 3,000 babies are stillborn annually in Canada.

It is estimated in Canada that 3 babies die of SIDs every week.

My name is Melissa Foley, and my son is Lachlan Michael Eagle Mueller.

We need more support for bereaved parents to come together in a peaceful safe place together to grieve authentically out loud while remembering our children. Every person who attends this retreat will have the opportunity to feel seen, heard and supported in this space.

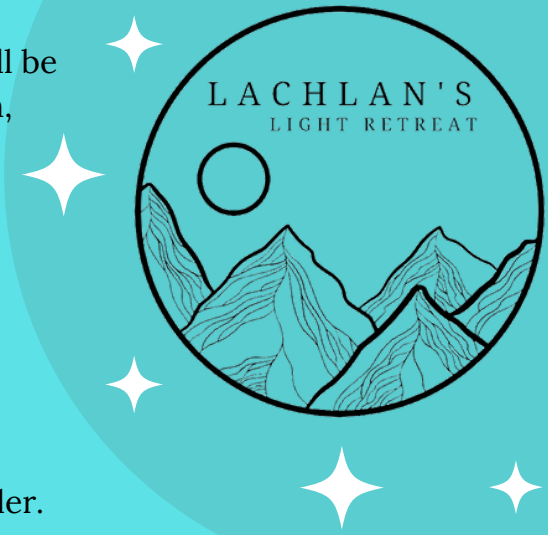

The individuals who will provide services during the weekend will be as local as possible and be able to share their modalities with the participants. There will be room for many times of self-reflection and connecting to their child and their grief while having free time to be able to explore the grounds and take in the peaceful lake. The hope is that the individual attendees can allow themselves the time and space to feel everything they need to while here, to grieve out loud. They will find understanding amongst those who live a similar life through this weekend of nurturing and honouring themselves and their child through slowing down and having the space to do so.

Thank you for your time and potential interest in helping sponsor this beautiful retreat of healing and rejuvenation for grieving parents who are looking for moments of connection with their children and others on similar journeys. We are hopeful to find sponsors that align with our retreat and vision that can help make this reality come to life and support more people within this community in their healing journey.

Lachlan's Light Retreat hopes to change the narrative in Canada around pregnancy & infant loss by eventually being able to offer 2 retreats yearly with your help towards the first annual retreat.
